PASS TEACHERS ARE SEEKING MORE PAY

Pass teachers have asked their respective school boards for an increase in wages, with only the Bellevue-Hillcrest teachers being successful up to the present time.

In respect to Coleman, the board has given an emphatic "no" stating that the wage increase came at the wrong time, as the budget had already been drafted and that resolution had already been sent to the town council and the proper government department.

Both Coleman and Blairmore school boards had met jointly to discuss the situation.

George Evans, chairman of the Coleman board has stated that he is prepared to again meet the teachers in 1947 prior to the budget being determined. If granted the salaries would add an additional $11,000 to the Coleman budget, which this year totalled $55,000.

CORRECTION FROM LAST WEEK

The Rev. W. E. Brown of St. Luke's Anglican church, who is leaving shortly to take charge of a Parish in Minnesota, U.S.A., preached his farewell sermon to a large congregation on Sunday evening last. At the conclusion of the service, the congregation adjourned to the church hall, where the Minister's Warden, Mr. A. R. Bourne, with a few well chosen words, presented the Rev. gentleman with a travelling bag as a parting gift.

CIESLAK—DOBEC

A wedding of local interest took place at St. Anne's church, Blairmore, on Saturday, June 1, at 8 a.m., when Veronica, youngest daughter of Mr. John Dobek, of Bellevue, and the bride, Mrs. Dobek, became the bride of Walter Cieslak, eldest son of Mrs. Frank Bolejewski, of Coleman, and the late Mr. Cieslak, Rev. Dean Harrington officiated.

The bride entering the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by Eleanor Aschacher, was charmingly dressed in a white floor length gown of fine net with full skirt and silk brocade top fitted in waist, long tight sleeves and sweetheart neckline. Her long tulle veil was held in place by a wreath of net with a single loop of pearls down the middle. She wore long white gloves and carried a bouquet of deep red roses. Her only ornaments were a pearl necklace and earings, gifts of the groom.

The altar was beautifully decorated with bouquets of snapdragons. Miss Frances Kremmins, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl, and was prettily dressed in a white net gown with a flowered wreath.

Attending the bride were her sister, Katie Dobek, who chose a gown of pink sheer with a quilted effect; Jennie Cieslak, sister of the groom, who wore a gown of heavy pink net with lace; Mary Olles chose a turquoise gown of crepe with sheer white yoke; Ann Kanik chose a dusty rose gown, in a jersey material and Ann Salus chose a gown of blue sheer with pink trimmings. All bridesmaids wore corresponding chapel veils and carried bouquets of carnations, snapdragons and sweetpeas.

Mrs. Ann Kolber, of Calgary, was maid-of-honor. She chose a navy blue polka dot dress with navy sheer in a redingote style and matching accessories.

The groom was supported by Alex. Sekela, Teddy Krzak, Butch Babin, Stanley Pyplaz and Joe Dobek.

The groom's mother was dressed in a powder blue crepe dress with embroidered blouse front and matching accessories.

During the signing of the register Mrs. L. Morgan sang "All Joy Be Thine."

Following the ceremony a very lovely dinner was served at the bride's home with Mrs. Ann Kremmins and Mrs. Ann Kolber supervising. A four tier wedding cake, with miniature white doves, centred the bride's table.

A reception was held for immediate relatives and friends. Tom Kropiak, accordionist, and John Rypien entertained with music.

As a remembrance the bride and groom asked all guests to sign their names in the marriage book.

The happy young couple left on Monday for Calgary, following which they will visit in the States. For going away the bride chose a heaven blue wool dressmaker suit with blazer, shoes and gloves.

Upon their return they will reside in Coleman where the groom is employed.

Their many friends wish them much joy and happiness in their married life.

CHILD DISEASES

Very young children have little resistance to germs, and child and maternal hygiene authorities, in the department of national health and welfare, Ottawa, point out that Canada loses too many infants through pneumonia and influenza. They urge mothers to keep children away from anyone with a cold, cough or sore throat and, if afflicted themselves, to wear gauze masks when around the baby.

HEALTH WEAPONS

Wartime research led to some important discoveries in the health field. Industrial hygiene experts of the department of national health and welfare, Ottawa, instance a new chemical developed as an antidote for arachnid war gases, which may have useful peacetime application. Chemical warfare research promises aid, also, to sufferers from certain types of eye disease, mental diseases and arsenic and mercury poisoning.

JOHN MACPHAIL PASSES

John MacPhail, 69, was fatally injured Monday morning in the yards of the Greenhill mine, when struck by the mine locomotive.

One of the oldest officials in point of service of the West Canadian Collieries, Mr. MacPhail first worked for the company in 1905. After two years he went to Fernie, returning in 1910, and since that time has been continuously in the company's employ.

Up until his retirement in 1943, Mr. MacPhail was master mechanic for the company. Since that time he had been acting as consulting steam engineer.

Mr. MacPhail was born in Springfield, Cape Breton, NS, in 1877 and was a charter member of the local Elks' Lodge.

He is survived by his widow; three sons, Gordon, John and Harold, all at home, and one daughter, Mrs. R. Derbyshire of Calgary.

The funeral took place from the United church on Wednesday, where service was conducted by Rev. James McElveen. Interment was made in Blairmore Union cemetery, grave services being conducted by Mr. McElveen and Mr. George Meffan of the Elks Lodge.

Pallbearers, all fellow workers and members of the Elks Lodge, were H. Carmichael, C. Fabro, A. Vepravna, H. Duhamel, A. Vangotschowen and F. H. Mackay. Honorary pallbearers included J. Angus MacDonald, Enoch Williams, William McEvoy, David Kemp, senior, Fern Millett and Joseph Wolstenholme.

Relatives attending from outside points were Mr. Alex. MacPhail (brother) Calgary, Mr. R. Derbyshire (son-in-law) Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. Torrance Hood, Trail, BC; Mr. and Mrs. George Hood, Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson, Great Falls, Montana; Mr. Andrew Hood, Coleman.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

Workers for the Hillcrest-Mohawk Collieries have been very busy this week putting in water lines for the residents of Peaceful Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moser had as their guests on Tuesday and Wednesday Mrs. Harold Parry and young son, of Chin, who stopped enroute to Trail, where they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Don Sutherland.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Seville and daughter, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Koemps, of Bellevue, were recent holiday visitors at Rock Lake, BC.

Mrs. R. Anderson, who has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Rodley, until Thursday for Lethbridge where she will reside.

Miss Alice Delowski entertained about twenty young friends on Sunday, in honor of her birthday. The guests enjoyed a weiner roast by the river.

Baseball fans turned out in full strength on Wednesday evening when Michel played Hillcrest in a series game. Michel won home with the honors, the score being 12-9 for the visitors.

The school children are taking their baseball very seriously, too, this year. On Wednesday afternoon the grade seven pupils from Maple Leaf came over to play the grade seven and eight pupils here. The Maple Leaf boys trounced the Hillcrest boys 9-7, and the Hillcrest girls retrieved the honor by winning a 10-3 game from the Maple Leaf girls.

Mrs. T. Calletti and daughter, Rose, of Burnside, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Monti. Rose is home on leave from the WAAF.

HARRY MEADE SELLS

BAKERY BUSINESS

Harry Meade, proprietor of Bellvue Bakery, has sold his business to Robert "Bob" Paton, of Saskatoon, and with Mrs. Meade plans on residing on his ranch north of Burns.

Twenty-three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Meade came to the Pass from Chinook, Alberta, in the Hanna district, and purchased the bakery business from Wm. "Billy" Evans, now proprietor of the Blairmore Exchange.

He built up the business until he had a fleet of four trucks travelling daily from Burns to Natah and employed a staff of 12. At one period he serviced stores at Waterton, National Park with bread and pastries. "Meade's Bread" have become household words in Pass homes throughout the years.

He has a section and three-quarters of land north of Burns and another three-quarters of a section of land north of Lundbreck. Harry, as he is familiarly known throughout the Pass, is a charter member of Bellevue Lions club and has been a Mason for the past twenty-five years. Mrs. Meade has been active in community activity in Bellevue and is a member of various organizations.

They are very travelled and have visited Australia, New Zealand, Honolulu, have been all over Europe, the United States, South America and the West Indies as well as the Dominion of Canada.

The new owner, Mr. Paton, is quite well known among the Pass business men. For 15 years he was manager of McGavin's Bakery at Lethbridge and during the past two years has been manager of the company's plant at Saskatoon. He has now gone into business for himself.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday morning, June 5th, at eleven o'clock in the Anglican church here when Helen, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Poch, of Lundbreck became the bride of Mr. William Crawford, also of Lundbreck. Rev. Mr. Clark officiated. The bride who was given in marriage by her father was charming in a gown of heaven blue sheer with matching fingertip veil held in place by a halo of blushing pink baby roses and carrying a bouquet of pink ophelia roses. Miss Lilian Poch, sister of the bride, gowned in blue sheer with a corsage of deep pink roses was bridesmaid while the groom was supported by his brother, Mrs. F. A. Tusman officiated at the organ. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after which the young couple left for a honeymoon trip to Southern Alberta, points when on their return they will take up residence on a ranch north of Lundbreck.

Mrs. W. E. Bent entertained the Womans Auxiliary of the Anglican church at her home on Thursday afternoon when eight members and one visitor were present.

Mrs. John Jones and Mrs. Charles Bare, of Spokane, Wash. are on an extended visit with their sisters here. Mrs. Jack Douglas and Mrs. Casey Casselman. This week the sisters formed a party and paid a visit to the city of Calgary.

Malcolm McMillan, M. A. Murphy, Wm. Cochrane and Harry Gunn attended a Masonic banquet on Tuesday evening at Macleod at which they reported as doing ample justice.

An estimate of four inches of rain fell over this district during the past week with two inches of this precipitation falling in a down-pour of eleven hours, beginning on Wednesday night, an hour before midnight. At present writing (Thursday afternoon) rain clouds still hang heavy overhead. With this splendid bit of moisture all grain crops are well away for the next several weeks. Prospects look very promising here for a full harvest. Pasture and meadow lands are luxuriant and green as far as the eye can reach.

Mr. Robt. Connely, of Pincher Creek, is spending a few days this week the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bent.

Friends will be glad to learn that Mrs. George Dwyer who is an inmate of St. Vincent's hospital in Pincher Creek is improving. Mrs. Dwyer has but recently returned from a three months' visit with her aged mother at Ozark, Missouri.

After operating the Alberta Pacific Elevator here for a period of eight years, Kenneth Martin has resigned from the agency with the vacancy being filled by Mr. Jordan, of Macleod. Ken. is now employed in the Martin Brothers' trucking business.

Carry Out Tests

Find Germs Often Just Thrive On Dosing Of Drugs

A danger area in which the new drug streptomycin increases rather than decreases death from infection was reported by United States Food and Drug Administration researchers.

Penicillin and streptomycin may also have this effect, the report added on the basis of preliminary studies.

Carrying out tests more than 2,000 mice, the scientists found the amount of streptomycin used determined whether the drug killed or cured. Disease-fighting compounds may also have this effect, the report added on the basis of preliminary studies.

So far, this theory has not been tried out on humans, but Dr. Henry Welch, who is an associate in the division of penicillin control and immunology, declares it is "entirely logical" that "improper dosage" may lead to undesirable results."

Results in the treatment of typhoid fever and undulant fever in men and women have been unexplainably erratic. Some patients are cured, others show no improvement even after large doses.

Dr. Welch suggests in the Journal of the American Pharmaceutical Association that under certain conditions streptomycin actually increases activity of the germ it is being used to fight. He could not explain this quirk of the drug.

Was Furious

Queen Victoria Was Violently Opposed To Women's Rights Movement

"Queen Victoria Was Furious" is the title given to a short series of feature broadcasts for London's overseas audiences. The three programs were about three women who devoted their lives to the cause of women's emancipation, and who worked closely together.

The reason for the title is that women's emancipation had no decent opponent from Queen Victoria.

When the movement began to make some headway she declared she was "most anxious to enlist everyone who can speak or write or speak in any way, to help us to win the woman's rights, with all its attendant horrors, on which her poor, feeble sex is bent, forgetting every sense of womanly feeling and propriety. It is a subject which makes the Queen so anxious that she cannot contain herself, and she has been the most hateful, heartless, and disgusting of human beings who she allowed to unsex herself; and where would be the protection which man was intended to give the weaker sex?"

MEDICAL AID REACHES

NORTHERN OUTPOST

The modern facilities of shorthand radio and a war-built airplane came to the aid of a small R.C.A.F. crew to bring modern medical aid to a remote northern outpost in a mercy flight, latest organized by the Indian health division of the Department of National Health.

It all began when Constable George Mackay of the R.C.M.P. at Fort Chimo, a port of Ungava Bay in northern Quebec, radioed that illness in the district required expert treatment.

With the co-operation of the R.C.A.F., a Dakota based at Dartmouth N.S., was placed at the disposal of Dr. H. W. Lewis, medical director of the East and West Arctic area, who was accompanied by S. J. Bailey, regional director of family allowances and Yukon Commissioner of West Territories, and G. H. Edgerton, a public health engineering division.

Atmospheric disturbances cut the plane off from radio communication with its home base but the crew, after a 10-hour flight, landed at an airbase situated by its wartime code name of Crystal One. Transportation to the Fort, eleven miles away, and living accommodation during the party's stay were provided by Martin Bréarley, an American engineer who built the main-line railway at Crystal One.

Approximately 40 persons had assembled for a medical examination, three of whom had to be brought out to the Halifax General Hospital for treatment. One, an Indian named Joe Pochene, was threatened with death. The Indian's condition was of a nature which the doctors believed will respond to treatment. The general health of the natives was good, and a good catch of furs assures them of economic security for another year.

In co-operation with Constable Mackay, Mr. Bailey studied ways of fitting family allowance payments into the native economy so as to promote their customary ways of maintaining themselves and to aid them to better years.

Mr. Edgerton investigated the buildings and equipment available for extension of health services in the area—a problem complicated by a population so scattered that it works out to one Eskimo per 48 square miles. Including the American party at Crystal One, the total white population is less than 40.

When the party was ready to return, it was discovered that one engine of the Dakota had become defective, probably because of the temperature when it had dropped to 35 degrees before it was accompanied by biting Arctic winds.

In the meantime, as radio communication had been impossible for nearly a week, a relief plane was dispatched from Dartmouth and landed at Crystal One just as the party of disabled craft were completed.

The pilot for the party on both the trip going north and coming out was Wing Commander W. J. Michaelson, officer commanding No. 161 Squadron of the R.C.A.F.

Ancient Ruins

Many Interesting Discoveries Have Been Made in Peru

Since 1899, French soil has been dug up that it would have been surprising if nothing had been uncovered in this old earth.

Thus it was in Lot-Garonne and in Var some members of the numerous squadrons of the enemy and in search of a treasure emerged, guns in hand, into prehistoric times, in grottos with walls painted three thousand years ago with hunting scenes drawn in the stone by the point of a flint.

It was in Valdés that the crew, dashing for shelter, passed in front of the familiar church built in neo-Isis style, and after the bombardment was over found among the ruins of the gutted church some old tombs. And then when the excavation began, glossy and historic remains belonging to old Roman churches was discovered.

In Aix-en-Provence it was not necessary to dig very deep. In 1899, when they were digging the first foundations for the Grand garage, they discovered not very far from the surface some very promising ruins: mosaics with a white background, green opalite, that marble used in the luxurious baths of the Emperors. Ionic capitals, seated columns, tiles of the same period, all the remains of what was once a very rich Greek villa and its annexes.

In a suburb north of Aix on the hillside where the Cézanne pavilion is situated, the Germans dug up the ground to build an anti-aircraft station.

The sight chosen for this post was later discovered to be a real mine. There they discovered an ancient Roman town and a Celtic-Ligurian village lying just under the surface. They extricated two busts of warlike figures, a bronze spear, a curved head of a woman, a bronze spear, a spearhead, and a stone lintel on which a couple were sculptured. The Roman legions must have pillaged and ruined the buildings, because all the pieces of sculpture were scarred.

Freemen Of London

Receive Book Of Rules Which Is Masterpiece Of Brevity

On his admission to the freedom of the City of London every freeman is presented with a little red book lettered in gold under the City arms, and entitled "Rules for the Conduct of Life". There are 36 rules in the little treatise and they are a combination of shrewd worldly wisdom be-gotten in experience and the pithy and fear of the Lord that were characteristic of our forefathers. No mention appears in the author of the book but it has neither introduction nor dedication. It is a masterpiece of brevity.

New Constitution

Malcolm MacDonald Installed As Governor of Malaya, Union And Singapore

Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, former British High Commissioner to Canada, was installed as Governor-General of the Malayan Union and Singapore.

The ceremony took place in the same municipal council chamber where Japanese representatives signed surrender terms eight months ago.

The Sultans were not present at the installation ceremony, nor did they send representatives.

Mr. MacDonald is the first Governor-General of the Malayan Union and Singapore. A British White Paper Jan. 22 outlined a new constitution which provides for regrouping of the Malay states and the Straits Settlements into two administrations—a Malayan and Singapore.

The new constitution has aroused some opposition based broadly on the belief that the Sultans, whose status is to be proposed to it, are a new threat to British rule.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY— VERY DEAR

By BILLIE LONGWELL
Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate

THE girl, sitting in the cocktail lounge, was conscious of someone leaning over her table. She stopped searching for matches in her pocketbook and looked up.

He was tall, thin and straight, wearing a first lieutenant's uniform. His face was grave and pleasant. He said, "Everybody in this place is talking to someone. May I talk to you?"

"I didn't answer immediately.

Her eyes closed to have a silent dash creep over her face. Nervously, she brushed her hair back from her forehead when she finally said, "I guess so," he already was seated.

He suggested another drink. She nodded assent. He said, "My name is Peter and I am going to kidnap you."

At that she laughed. "My name is Julie and I'm making a train in exactly half an hour."

"Humm, Julie! I always liked that name. You are going home?"

"But your accent is southern."

"My parents live in the south. That is where I'm going."

"That is where you were going," he said with a grin. "Remember, I'm going to kidnap you."

She glanced at the clock, raised her glass in a silent toast. "I must hurry."

"Oh no, Julie. You have some questions to answer," said Peter Graville. "Are you married to a nothing?" she nodded negatively.

"Engaged?"

"Good, you are practically kidnapped," said Peter with enthusiasm. Intercepting her second glance at the door, he held out his hand and ran away from a soldier who leaves town at midnight tomorrow, would you?"

She abruptly set down her glass and looked at his tall five battle stars and purple heart medal. "No," she said in a low voice, "I wouldn't run away. Where do you want to go from here, lieutenant?"

He reminded her that his name was Peter. And he mentioned a spot on the east side which used to serve the best steaks in the world and was frequented by "newspaper people".

"That is the place for us," she said.

Walking from the lounge, he put his arm through hers and held her hand.

"Peter," she asked suddenly, "are you married?"

"No, though I was once. But she couldn't bear me."

She pressed his hand. "She must have."

"No," Peter disagreed, "she was very sweet fundamentally. A little too young and perhaps a little spoiled. Also, I was eight years younger than I am now and a newspaper reporter slightly on the screwy side. I blamed her terribly at first. But later on I realized that I didn't know the score and I didn't make much of an effort to straighten her out. She hadn't been around much and she believed we were all squares."

She murmured. They got into a cab. "You make a great many excuses for her."

He gave her a level look. "She was very dear to me. How dear I didn't realize at the time."

"Changing the subject," he asked when she had come to New York.

"There were many reasons," she said softly, "but mainly I wanted to change myself."

"Change yourself?"

"Yes," she continued gravely, "I was a bit of a snob. I was accused of being a self-centered little snob who didn't do much more than show horses, dance, and get into tantrums." She laughed self-consciously. "Eventually, I understood he was right so I tried to do something about it."

"And did you succeed, Julie?"

"I believe so. At any rate, I have made friends in and out of the store where I have been working. And, so far, I haven't been fired for getting into tantrums."

"We're here, bud" the cabby interrupted.

"Julie," he said then stopped, after he paid off the car.

"Julie," he repeated, removing his overcoat cap, "sudden death doesn't appeal to me. It is now almost midnight and I could be here at this time tomorrow. Will you think it an awful wif if I ask you to come with me to the borrowed apartment I am staying in and answer some of the hundreds of questions I want to ask you?"

"Julie," she answered, without hesitation. "I won't think you are a wif."

"Good gal," he said, jauntily restoring his cap and waving for a cab. She watched him and smiled. They rode in silence to the apartment once inside Granville he held her close.

"You know, Julie," he said, "you are making my last hours here perfect."

"Slow down, Peter," she said drawing him toward the doorway. "Now, sit down about your wife."

"I'd like to tell you about my ex-husband," she gazed straight ahead and spoke in quiet, unemotional voice.

"Finally I realized my own faults, too. I'm not perfect. I'm not perfect, though I'm dignified," she smiled wanly, reaching for a cigarette.

"Silly, wasn't I? We really did have our moments, like wonderful days by the sea."

NOT ANNUALLY

People there are who claim that United States income taxes are not much lower than Canada's. But the fact remains that the percentages of income paid by our neighbors is materially less.

A home owner in the U.S. may deduct from his income interest on his mortgage, casualty damage to his residence, his trees, his furniture. And losses due to storms and earthquakes and other Acts of God, including drought, flood and frozen pipes. His local taxes and losses through theft, and burglary and fire are deductible also.

Of course few taxpayers could hope to enjoy all those deductions in one year. But there seems to be a good argument that personal losses reduce a person's income and, therefore, there should be no personal income tax on losses, just as there is not, in the U.S., any tax on interest. — The Printed Word.

BATTLE SPOTTED

FEVER TICKS

EDMONTON, May 22—Two crews of University of Alberta medical students under the direction of J. H. Brown, provincial entomologist, are assisting the endless war against spotted fever, bubonic plague and tularemia in the south of the province. Mr. Brown reported today following his return from a trip to southern Alberta.

Their investigations have already shown that the population of spotted fever ticks is high in parts of the country, Mr. Brown said. The crews have vaccinated more than 2,000 people against this disease at three clinics.

The crews devote their time up to about the middle of June in combating and investigating the tick which causes spotted fever and turn their attention to the war against plagues, bubonic fever and tularemia, which are carried by gnats.

The diseases are transmitted to humans when the infected bodies of dead gnats are handled.

TWICE RESCUED

A wealthy family in England (many years ago) took their children for a holiday in the country. Their host toured over his estate for a week end. The children went swimming in a pool. One of the boys began to drown, and the other boy screamed for help. The son of the gardener jumped in and rescued the helpless one. Later the grateful parents asked the gardener what they could do for the youthful hero. The gardener said his son wanted to go to college. "He wants to be a doctor," he said. The visitors shook hands on it. "We'll be glad to pay his way through," they told him.

When Winston Churchill was stricken with pneumonia (after the Teheran conference) the King of England instructed that the best doctor be found to save the Prime Minister. The doctor turned out to be Dr. Fleming, the developer of penicillin. "Easily," said Churchill to Fleming, "has one man saved his life twice to the same success." It was Fleming who saved Churchill in that pool.

CAMPOBELLO MONUMENT TO LATE PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

The Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada has just completed its annual meeting in Ottawa under the chairmanship of Dr. J. Clarence Webster of Sherrill, New Brunswick. The meeting lasted for three days, May 15th, 16th and 17th, and members of the Board were welcomed by the minister of mines and resources, the Honorable J. A. Gien. The Board is an honorary body of well-recognized historians who assist and advise the National Parks Bureau in the work of restoring, preserving and administering national historic parks and sites in Canada.

During the war the work of acquiring, commemorating these national historic places was greatly curtailed, but plans are now underway for the carrying out of many of the board's recommendations for post-war development. These include a monument to be erected at Campobello Island, New Brunswick, to the memory of the late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, a monument to Lucy Maud Montgomery, author of "Anne of Green Gables," and to Father Jacques Marquette, the discoverer of the Mississippi river. Among tablets to be erected will be one in the Parliament buildings at Victoria, British Columbia, to Sir James Douglas, the "father" of British Columbia, and at New Westminster, also in British Columbia, to Judge Howay, a distinguished historian and latterly chairman of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

Other members attending the board meeting in Ottawa were Professor Walter N. Sage of Vancouver, British Columbia, Professor M. H. Long of Edmonton, Alberta, J. A. Gregory of North Battleford, Saskatchewan, Rev. Antoine d'Eschambault of St. Boniface, Manitoba, Professor Fred Landen, London, Ontario, Honorable E. Fabre-Surveys, Montreal, Quebec, Professor D. C. Harvey, Halifax, Nova Scotia, Major G. Lancott, and H. D. Cromarty of Ottawa.

The carrying out of many of the recommendations made during the course of this meeting will have to be held in abeyance until such time as the shortage of materials and skilled labor in Canada has been overcome.

COAL MINING

There is no demand for labor in the Estevan coal fields and most mines are operating short time. There is an urgent need for qualified miners at Lethbridge. The mines in this area are working steadily. Coal orders are plentiful in the Blairstmore area, with mines operating full time, 102 men are required in this area, and 60 at Fenni, with room and board available. These men are urgently required, particularly at this time when the need for coal is so great. More workers could be absorbed quite readily were it not for the existing housing shortage.

At the local mines in the Drumheller area have resumed full time production and are in need of coal miners, tracklayers, mine drivers and inexperienced underground laborers. Full time employment is practically assured for the remainder of the year due to the coal strike in the U.S.A. The return of agricultural workers to their farms, has aggravated the need for miners at Lethbridge, Drumheller and Red Deer.

Red Deer reports that certified miners, timbermen and tracklayers are required for the Big Horn and Saunders Creek Collieries at Saunders, also the Alexo Coal Mines at Alexo, Alberta. The Brazeau Collieries at Nordegg, Alberta, are in need of underground laborers, surface laborers and mine prop cutters.

IT MEANS A LOT when the meal includes Maxwell House. This marvelous coffee is extra delicious because it contains choice Latin-American coffees... the finest the world produces.

ASK LABOR SUPPORT
CLOTHING COLLECTION

people of Europe has gone out from national headquarters of the Canadian Allied Relief.

An urgent appeal from Percy R. in a message to William Massey Bengough, president of the Trades Unions, national chairman of the Canadian Labor Congress of Canada, to all agents Mr. Bengough says:

"I am confident you can count on the utmost support from the affiliated membership of the trades and labor congress of Canada in the second National Clothing Collection campaign to take place from June 17 to June 29. "I would strongly urge all representative officers from the Atlantic to the Pacific to support and actively participate in their local collections."

JUNE IS CENSUS MONTH IN WESTERN CANADA

EVERY FIVE YEARS the Dominion Government assembles facts about Western Canada — facts which, when they are sorted out, will answer many vitally important questions concerning population, agriculture, housing etc.

To get these facts the Dominion Bureau of Statistics goes to the people themselves. No one else can supply so accurately the information which will guide all governments — Dominion, Provincial and Municipal — in policy-making during the critical years ahead.

This year is Census year, and June is Census month. A new and very important feature will be collection of facts on housing in cities and towns of over 5,000 population.

This 1946 Census is of special interest because it will provide the first reliable picture of Post-War Canada. It is the Reconstruction Census.

IT IS IMPORTANT TO YOU, AND YOU CAN HELP—by answering all questions frankly and correctly when the Official Enumerator calls at your home. There is no reason to withhold information. The enumerator is sworn to secrecy and you can place absolute trust in him. Both he and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics will hold all information in strictest confidence; it can never be used against you by any tax-collecting or other agency or in any court of law.

It is compulsory by law to answer the questions, but, more important, it is good citizenship to reply... frankly and accurately.

Must The Consumer Pay?

LABOR MANAGEMENT DISPUTES have reached alarming proportions on this continent during the past year. So far, the situation has been much more serious in the United States than in Canada, but American labor troubles have affected us here by cutting off the supplies of certain products and raising the prices of others. Strikes have taken place in a number of Canadian industries also, and there appears to be a general move on the part of labor to improve wages and working conditions at this time. Under the democratic system of government in which we believe, no one would deny the right of workers to strike for what they believe to be their rights, but it is an open question if there is a great need in many cases for drastic adjustment of labor management relations.

Trend Viewed With Alarm The trend toward higher wages in industry cannot be viewed except with some alarm by wage earners and other workers in moderate income groups. They realize that increase in the cost of labor will inevitably cause a rise in prices which will pass from the manufacturer to the consumer and that the consumer will pay more for products so affected, and unless the general level of income is raised to meet these increases, considerable hardship will result for a large part of the population. If, on the other hand, incomes are stepped up to meet the rise in price levels, the dreaded spiral of inflation will commence and there will be little hope of stopping its ruinous course. During the war, Canada's system of price and wage control and her anti-inflation measures were looked upon as the best that had been worked out for any nation. With the unavoidable loosening of some wartime controls and the rise in labor management disputes, however, it is now questioned whether it will be possible to avoid a state of inflation much longer.

Very Real And Serious Menace A serious view of the situation is being taken by consumers, and especially by those in moderate income groups. This includes many farmers who will be adversely affected by increased prices on manufactured goods. In Alberta recently, the matter was discussed at a meeting of representatives of farm organizations where it was made clear that the present threat of inflation is regarded as a real and serious menace. It is said that labor management disputes are an unavoidable aftermath of war. It must not be forgotten that in Canada labor was solidly behind the war effort, and it should also be remembered that there may exist injustices in regard to wages and working conditions which warrant action on the part of labor organizations. That, however, is only one section of the population, and unless means are found to offset the effect of higher production costs on the prices of consumer goods, we will have either widespread dissatisfaction and hardship, or the disaster of inflation.

Washington Star Tells Story About
Visitors To Mexican Embassy

A writer in the Winnipeg Tribune says he is torn between admiration for the frank and open-mindedness of the Embassies and attacks and sympathy for the frustration which arose in the minds of the callers in the following items from the Washington Star: A short, swarthy man appeared at the main door of the Mexican Embassy, where two Washingtonians called recently for some vacation information. "Sorry," he told them, "you will have to ring at the Embassy office the other side of the building." The two walked around the office and up the stairs. The same short man answered, not a bit out of breath though he must have dashed madly through the Embassy to get to the other door in time. "Sorry," he told the callers, "the office is closed for the day."

Selective Immigration

Says It Is Important For Canada To Retain World Position

Fellows of the Royal Society of Canada were told that "selective immigration is imperative" for Canada to retain its world position. Dr. Rabinovitch will investigate the physiology of division of the nuclei of the cells of the organisms. Dr. Rabinovitch will carry out an investigation in physical chemistry and Dr. Trudel will study the subject of Canadian-American relations.

POPULATION OF JAPAN

The population of Japan is 73,110,000, a Government census showed, compared with a pre-war population of 72,875,800.

In the first two years of its life the little blue heron is white.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—When will the second lot of canning sugar coupons become valid?

A.—The five extra sugar-preserves coupons which may be used to secure sugar for canning will become valid on July 4. —

Q.—Is strawberry and raspberry jam still under the ceiling price regulations?

A.—Yes, all jam remains under the ceiling. Fresh strawberries and raspberries have, however, been removed from the ceiling.

Q.—How many butter coupons become due in the month of June?

A.—Three butter coupons become valid in June—R10 on June 6, R11 on June 13 and R12 on June 20.

Q.—Why are unsweetened solid pack peaches in consumer size bins rationed?

A.—Supplies of all unsweetened canned fruits are limited and these types of canned fruits are rationed to ensure a fair and equitable distribution to consumers.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book of Price Control to the Department of National Health and Welfare, your ceiling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

A Novel Remedy

Whooping Cough Is Cured By A Trip In A Plane

LEICESTER, England.—Flying a child who was suffering from whooping cough to a height of 12,000 feet and then driving steeply towards the ground has proved successful in two cases.

George Derbyshire, Leicester pilot, did it first for the 18-month-old child of a friend. Now he has tried it on a second child, a 10-year-old boy. The child coughed as the plane gained height, but at 12,000 feet the coughing ceased.

After a steep descent the boy ap-peared to be cured.

The Royal Society

Royal Society

Want National Museum To Be Put On A Proper Basis

The Royal Society of Canada urged at a meeting in Toronto that the National Museum at Ottawa put on a "proper basis" and that the Federal Government appropriate the required funds to control and develop it. The society also urged that a national library be set up, to assure that copyright books and important periodicals would be available by loan through the Dominion library.

Twelve Canadians in the field of science were elected as Fellows of the Society. They are: Dr. Helen S. Hogg, of the David Dunlop Observatory, north of Toronto; Dr. L. H. Howlett, associate research physiologist, National Research Council; Dr. C. A. Wilson, of McGill University; Dr. R. Terry of Ventures Ltd., Toronto; H. C. Horwood of the Ontario Department of Mines; H. M. A. Rice of the Geological Survey of Canada.

Dr. Louis Berger of Laval University, Dr. I. M. McT. Cowan of the University of British Columbia; Dr. James Craigie of the Toronto School of Hygiene and Connaught Laboratories; Dr. R. R. Lyle of the University of Saskatchewan; Dr. A. E. Peacock of the National Museum; and Dr. R. F. Shuter of Alberta University.

All of the new Fellows have distinguished themselves in the field of pure and applied physical chemistry, medicine and biology. Dr. Hogg is the first woman Fellow of the Society's section III.

She made outstanding observations on "globular clusters" in the heavens.

Research Fellowships to a value of $15,400 were awarded to G. L. Burton, Dr. Herbert Stern of McGill University, Dr. B. S. Rabkin and Dr. Marcel Trudel of Laval University.

The Fellows were made responsible to the various governments of Ontario, British Columbia, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Mr. Burton will study methods of stabilizing farm incomes, Dr. Rabkin will investigate the physiology of division of the nuclei of the cells of the organisms. Dr. Rabinovitch will carry out an investigation in physical chemistry and Dr. Trudel will study the subject of Canadian-American relations.

HEALTH STANDARDS

Need Uniform Basic Regulations Covering Contagious Diseases

The Dominion Council of Health, which is the national committee of regulations covering control of the communicable diseases throughout Canada, has requested the Dominion Government to prepare standards for regulations which might be applied in all provinces, the Health and Welfare Department announced at Ottawa.

The request was made following the council's 49th annual meeting at Ottawa at which discussion also covered the lack of uniform provincial legislation to give the provinces responsibility for payment for public assistance or institutional care. The Federal Department also was asked to consider a draft residence bill prepared by a committee of provincial health ministers.

Dr. H. M. Cassell of Toronto, president of the Canadian Medical Association, said that the committee of the Canadian Medical Association, of which he is chairman, had also attended the meeting.

Military Aspects Of The Recent Muskox Trip.

OTTAWA.—Doubtless emphasis on military aspects of the recent Operation Muskox has been given by defence officials here but there has been no lack of confirmation for the Arctic expedition's chief finding—that large-scale invading forces could deploy through the snowy tundra of that vast undefended area.

One authority asked to comment specifically on the military results of the 3,000-mile trek from Churchill, Man., through the Arctic Circle to Edmonton, Alta., said, "I think he thought the exercise had been 'embarrassed' by too much publicity."

He declared the military aspect of the expedition had been given almost a sinister twist while the interest of American observers by "representatives of the press" had made it appear that the United States was going to move in to assume a defensive role that was the sovereign responsibility of Canada.

He referred to criticism of the intent of the exercises which has appeared in the Russian press and thought it might have resulted from over-emphasis of American and British participation.

In the first place, he said, Canada would not entertain criticism from any quarter, nor might investigations carried out within its own borders and in the second place Russian military attaches had an equal opportunity with British and United States officials to apply for a seat in one of the snowmobiles. In fact, Russian military men had gone to Churchill to observe the Canadian program and watch its start.

There have been preliminary reports on the results of Muskox expedition, but the final report embodying various phases of the exercise will not be released until August. This report, which may be disclosed in part through a press release, will touch on various subjects ranging from discipline to mechanical developments.

No further exercises, an official said, were planned for "some little time."

Already, he said, the experts had reported on the mechanical troubles which had developed en route and suggestions had been blue-printed which will have to be made in arm vehicles used in subsequent Arctic manoeuvres. Suggestions for winter clothing improvements have also been embodied in practical plans already carried out.

CHEQUES ON WAY

Over Six Million Dollars Is Going To Barley Producers

OTTAWA.—Payments totalling $6,106,932.94 are now being made to all producers who delivered barley either through country elevators or by farm-to-farm transactions in the crop year 1944-45. Trade Minister J. A. MacKinnon announced in the house here.

The payment covers deliveries made between August 1, 1944 and July 31, 1945, including approximately 155,000 cheques are involved covering total deliveries of 80,435,781 bushels and the amount per bushel of the payment is 7.59 cents, Mr. MacKinnon said.

The amount involved in the payments is the difference between the advance payment of 7.59 cents and the equalization fees collected in respect of barley exported, after allowing for administration costs and estimated cost of making the payment.

In the case of deliveries through country elevators the cheques are converted through the local sub-mill to the wheat board by the handling companies.

Where producers made deliveries to more than one elevator separate cheques will be issued, one for each of the companies to whom deliveries were made. The cheques will be forwarded to the elevator companies for distribution when completed, but cheques covering the farm-to-farm transactions will be distributed by mail from the offices of the board.

ELECTRICALLY RUN

British Company Perfecting Car To Run 50 Miles Per Hour

London.—An electrically-run automobile capable of 50 miles an hour is being perfected by a leading British motor manufacturing company working with an electrical engineering firm, The Daily Telegraph reported. The car, which can go back to electric—thereir great weight caused by lead plates in storage batteries—has been overcome by using plates made of magnesium a very light metal.

LOOT RECOVERED

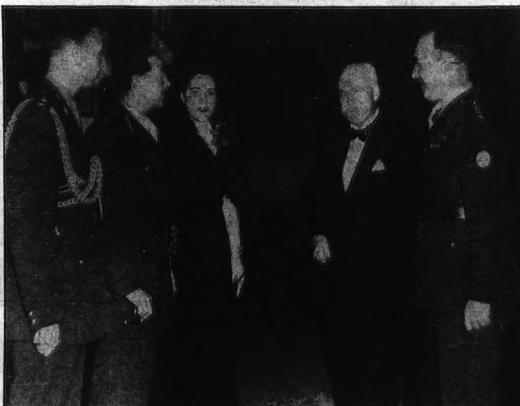

BERLIN.—Ancient gold coins valued by experts at £1,250,000 ($5,342,500) said to have been looted by Hitler from Austrian monasteries to finance the last stand which he planned to make in the Bavarian "redoubt" have been recovered by United States army intelligence agents at Salzburg, Austria.

LECTURE ON ARCTIC EXPEDITION—Col. J. T. Wilson, who, as Director of Operational Research to N.D.R.C., Ottawa, was largely responsible for the organization of "Exercise Muskox," is presented to Their Excellencies the Governor-General and the Viscountess Alexander prior to his lecture on this 3,100-mile Arctic expedition, delivered under the auspices of The Canadian Geographical Society at the National Museum of Canada, Ottawa. His Excellency, who is Honorary Patron of the Society, displayed keen interest in the lecture, which was illustrated by official motion pictures and lantern slides specially released for this occasion. Left to right are Their Excellencies, with the Governor-General's aide-de-camp; C. G. Cowan, President of The Canadian Geographical Society, and Colonel Wilson, Director and Fellow of the Society.

Problems Of Distribution Of Consumer Goods

OTTAWA.—Representatives of Canadian industrial organizations and government agencies charged during the war in regulating distribution of consumer goods decide to send a delegation to the Boston conference in October as a first step in a combined attack on distribution problems in Canada.

David Bloomfield, president of the Boston conference, and Dr. Raymond W. Miller, advisory counsel, explained the objects of the conference in co-ordinating the best minds in industry to improving distribution facilities and reducing costs.

Industry had made tremendous advances in the last three years in solving production problems, Mr. Bloomfield said, but had lagged behind in ironing out shortcomings in getting the goods from the producer to the consumer. He was anxious that the conference should set up a conference similar to that held earlier in Boston so that two conferences could co-ordinate their efforts and later join similar meetings in London and other countries.

MONTRÉAL—Canada's hopes for immediate efforts to agree on a multilateral convention for a code of international air commerce regulations fell before stubborn and well-supported American determination to delay action for another year.

Commission three of the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organization's first general assembly unanimously adopted the American delegation's resolution postponing any attempt to complete a multilateral agreement at the present assembly.

H. J. Symington, spokesman for the Canadian delegation, called for a save time and hasten the full discussion that is to begin multilaterally at this meeting, finally agreed to make acceptance of the American proposals unanimous.

D. D. Goodwin, Newfoundland delegate, also fought a losing battle to retain before the commission the possible hope for completion of a convention at this meeting.

William A. Burden, assistant secretary of state for air, a member of the American delegation, succeeded in obtaining adoption without dissent of his resolution which urged an exhaustive discussion now of the principle of a multilateral convention but assumed at the outset that none would be signed at the present assembly.

Dr. Goodwin moved an amendment which would remove the American resolution's assumption that a convention would not be adopted this assembly.

He survived, after nearly a year of hospitalization, was discharged from the air force in 1943 and went to sea on a troop ship to see more action. He said he would seek an instructor's birth with the R.C.A.F.

WELL-KNOWN FINANCER DIES

Morris W. Wilson, 63, president and managing-director of the Royal Bank of Canada and one of the Dominion's most prominent financiers, died in hospital in Montreal after a short illness.

Born at London, N.S., Mr. Wilson was chairman of the board of directors and other positions of public responsibility in leading Canadian groups. Educated at Lumberville, where he entered the services in 1914, he later served in Halifax, Charlottetown, Montreal, Truro, N.S., and Vancouver. In Montreal, he was appointed general manager in 1929, vice-president in 1931, and to the position he held at his death in 1944.

BOMB LOCATED

Has Puzzled Disposal Company In London For Seven Months

OTTAWA.—An unexploded bomb which has been a mystery to the disposal company which has been puzzling London's bomb disposal company of the Royal Engineers for seven months, discovered 12 feet from a shaft which had been sunk early in the search.

The size of the bomb is unknown and another shaft will be sunk above the point of location.

Alaska and Russia are separated by only 56 miles of open sea.

Changes To Be Made In Policy On Immigration

OTTAWA.—Immigration doors to the Dominion were opened a little wider when Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of mines and resources, informed the house of changes in Canada's immigration policy.

The following will now be on the Canadian immigration list and admissible to the Dominion:

"The father or mother; unmarried son or daughter; 35 years or over; the unmarried brother or sister; the orphan nephew or niece under 16 years, of any person legally admitted to and resident in Canada who is in a position to receive and care for such relatives."

Relaxing of Canada's strict immigration restrictions will meet in some measure the pressing demands being made on behalf of refugees or displaced persons having relatives to provide them with homes and a place to live.

The minister stressed that the action was only intended as a short term measure and provided only for admission to Canada of approved persons who could be maintained under established lines and provided with housing by relatives.

OTTAWA.—Action will be taken by the government to have men "of the highest type" brought to Canada to replace the prisoners of war as workers in the mines of the provinces of Manitoba, Ontario and Alberta, according to a statement made in the house by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture.

The minister did not disclose than to say, "I hope when the other countries in Europe who are where the men are, where they are coming from, and how they are getting here; everyone will be ready to say that they are just as good as the prisoners of war, and will make much better permanent settlers in Canada."

CANADIAN JOB

Australian Air Gunner Wants Berth With The R.C.A.F.

SEATTLE.—Pte. Sgt. Reginald P. Howard, Australian air gunner whose recovery from war wounds was one of the medical miracles of the war, has come to Canada to enlist in the R.C.A.F.

Howard flew back to his base near Tophuk in North Africa Sept. 17, 1942, after a flight against Italian ships, holding a portion of his brain in his mouth to stop the flow of blood from other wounds.

He survived, after nearly a year of hospitalization, was discharged from the air force in 1943 and went to sea on a troop ship to see more action. He said he would seek an instructor's birth with the R.C.A.F.

William A. Burden, assistant secretary of state for air, a member of the American delegation, succeeded in obtaining adoption without dissent of his resolution which urged an exhaustive discussion now of the principle of a multilateral convention but assumed at the outset that none would be signed at the present assembly.

Dr. Goodwin moved an amendment which would remove the American resolution's assumption that a convention would not be adopted this assembly.

So long as the lobsters, brought here from the Atlantic coast, remain in captivity they thrived but when released they died.

"There has been a feeling that experiment was not given the fullest scope," said Mr. Alexander. "Nor was time given to study their breeding habits. It may be not enough lobsters were planted to restore their natural enemies. The new experiment will be on a larger scale."
